Carry on baggage security information

The following restrictions apply to liquids including creams, pastes, gels and aerosols carried in your hand luggage:
- Liquids may only be carried in containers that hold 100 ml or less and must fit in a closed, transparent, resealable 20 x 20cm plastic bag, which are available at the airport (charges may apply).
- Please bring a medical certificate with you if you need to carry higher amounts of liquid prescription medicine with you. Special dietary meals and baby milk may also be carried on board; security staff may ask you to sample it at the airport.

No sharp or pointed objects are allowed in your hand luggage. If you are taking needles for medical reasons you need to bring a doctors certificate with you to show at the security check at the airport.

Delayed or damaged baggage

Please immediately report any missing or damaged baggage to the airline’s handling agent’s desk. These desks are located close to the baggage carousel. Reports must be made before proceeding through Customs. Please note that airlines do not normally compensate for minor damage to your baggage which may occur while your luggage travels on the airport’s conveyor belts.

Other useful information about your luggage

Please label your luggage. In case your luggage goes astray we recommend that you also label the inside of your luggage with your address and phone number. Please do not pack any valuables, perishable item, keys, travel documents or medicine in your checked baggage. These items must be packed in your hand luggage.

Food and drink

Germania do not serve complimentary food and drinks, however a selection of snacks and beverages may be purchased on board. We recommend that you either buy refreshments at the airport before boarding or carry some cash (British pounds sterling) with you. Passengers on special diets should bring their own refreshments.

SCHEDULED FLIGHTS FROM THE UNITED KINGDOM AND IRELAND

Check-In

Please be at the airport for check-in at least 2 hrs before departure for your international flights. At large busy airports like Manchester, London Gatwick or Heathrow we recommend you arrive at the check-in at least 2.5 hrs before departure. Internet and/or self service kiosk check-in may be available depending on which airline you are travelling with.

Your flight tickets are electronic; you may check-in by showing your passport to the agent at the check-in counter. Please retain the baggage tag issued at check-in until after you have collected your luggage. Some code share flights are operated by a different carrier than the one shown on your itinerary. You may find more information on www.checkmytrip.com, where you may access your booking and even print a copy of your e-ticket by entering your name and booking reference.

Baggage through Check-in

If you have a connecting flight from the UK to Norway with an onward flight to another destination in Norway, you need to collect your baggage from the carousel at the first arrival airport in Norway. You then take your luggage through Customs even if your luggage has been labelled to your final destination. After leaving the Customs area please hand in your luggage at the baggage drop desk and show your boarding pass along with your passport.

Checked in luggage does not have to be collected if you are connecting through an airport outside of Norway, such as Amsterdam or Copenhagen. If you are holding separate tickets on different airlines it is usually not possible to check baggage through. Check in staff will advise you whether baggage may be through checked or not.

Cabin baggage security information

The following restrictions apply to liquids including creams, pastes, gels and aerosols carried in your hand luggage:
- Liquids may only be carried in containers that hold 100 ml or less and must fit into a closed, transparent, resealable 20 x 20cm plastic bag, which are available at the airport (charges may apply).
- Please bring a medical certificate with you if you need to carry higher amounts of liquid prescription medicine with you. Special dietary meals and baby milk may also be in your hand luggage; security staff may ask you to sample it at the airport.

- Duty free articles purchased at the airport or on board flights are exempt from this rule. Make sure you show the boarding pass of your connecting flight when buying liquids at your first departure airport so that the check out staff will place your purchase in a special sealed bag that will be accepted at the security check of your next airport.

No sharp or pointed objects are allowed in your hand luggage. If you are taking needles for medical reasons you need to bring a doctor’s certificate with you to show at the security check at the airport.

Delayed or damaged baggage
Please immediately report any missing or damaged baggage to the airline’s handling agent’s desk. These desks are located close to the baggage carousel. Reports must be made before proceeding through Customs. Please note that airlines do not normally compensate for minor damage to your baggage which may occur while your luggage travels on the airports conveyor belts.

Other useful information about your luggage
Please label your luggage with the Hurtigruten luggage labels provided. In case your luggage goes astray, we recommend that you also label the inside of your luggage with your address and phone number. Please do not pack any valuables, keys, travel documents, medicine or perishable items in your checked baggage. These items must be packed in your hand luggage.

Food and drink
Many airlines, such as SAS and Norwegian Air Shuttle do not serve complimentary food and drinks on flights within Europe, however a selection of snacks and beverages is available for purchase on board.

On British Airways and KLM flights a drink and a small snack are served in-flight. Passengers on special diets should bring their own refreshments.
